Paul's Journey to Rome. Acts 21:27 to 28:31; Duration – 2 ½ Years.

Around 59 A.D. and 60 A.D., Paul was taken as a prisoner from Caesarea to Rome, making several stops along the way. Even as a prisoner, Paul continued to evangelize. This is described in Acts 27 and 28;

In Jerusalem, Paul evangelizes about Jesus. This angers a group of non-believers who retaliate by starting a riot. Paul is arrested. (Acts 21:17-40; Acts 22;) He is taken to Caesarea and questioned. (Acts, chapters 23-26;) It is decided that Paul is to be taken to Rome, as a prisoner. Acts 27:1-2;

Paul is taken as a Roman prisoner from Caesarea to Sidon, on his way to Rome. In Sidon, Paul is permitted to visit friends who reside there.
Acts 27:3;

From Sidon, Paul is taken by ship to Myra. There, Paul and other prisoners are taken to an Alexandrian ship, which is heading for Italy.
Acts 27:5;

From Myra, Paul and the other prisoners sail for Cnidus, arriving there after several days. Acts 27:7;

From Cnidus, Paul's ship has a slow and difficult journey to Fair Havens. Acts 27:8;

The ship sails from Fair Havens. A violent storm batters the ship. Paul is told by an angel of God that everyone will survive. After two weeks, the ship is shattered against the rocks near Malta. Everyone on board makes it to shore, safely. Acts 27:13-44;

After three months in Malta (also known as Melita), Paul and the others are taken to another ship heading to Rome. The ship stops at a handful of ports along the way, including Syracuse. Acts 28:11-12;

Acts 28:12; Syracuse is on the island of Sicily.

After three days in Syracuse, the ship sails for Rhegium, on the way to Rome. Acts 28:12-13

From Rhegium, Paul is taken to Puteoli, where Paul is permitted to visit friends. Acts 28:13-14

Paul is taken from Puteoli to Rome. In Rome, he is permitted to live in a rented home, under the watch of a Roman guard.

A dramatic landscape photograph capturing a sunset or sunrise. The sky is filled with layers of clouds, some of which are illuminated from below by the low sun, creating a vibrant orange and yellow glow. The sun itself is partially visible as a bright, glowing orb near the horizon. In the foreground, the dark silhouettes of desert vegetation, including several tall saguaro cacti, are visible against the bright sky. The overall mood is serene yet powerful, with a strong contrast between the dark foreground and the fiery sky.
